Fast-Going Downtown Train Crashes Into Another at Fifty-seventh Street and Passengers Are Almost in a Riot During Their Efforts to Get Off the Cars.

MOTORMAN KILLED AT POST AND A PASSENGER BELIEVED TO BE DEAD.

Two Cars Caught Fire and Persons Riding in Them Climbed Through Windows to the Track, Ignoring Dangers of Third Rail -Police Reserves Called Out.

A motorman was instantly killed and at least one passenger is believed to have lost his life in a rear-end collision on the Third avenue "L" structure, at Fifty-seventh street, a few minutes before 5 o'clock this afternoon between two south-bound trains.

The motor-car completely telescoped the rear car. The collision was followed by a burst of flame and a wild rush of the passengers for the doors. The fact that the power was immediately turned off is all that saved the lives of scores of passengers, who tumbled over each other on the third rail after scrambling out of the cars through windows and
